FuelCell Energy Obtains
Connecticut Quality
Improvement Award
Innovation Prize

Chamber member FuelCell Energy has been awarded the gold-level award for the Connecticut Quality Improvement Award Innovation Prize. This entry-level program is patterned after the Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award Program, the "innovation Prize" provides a stepping stone to the rigorous state-level awards that recognize Connecticut Companies excelling in quality improvement.

FuelCell, a Dandury-based company, which manufactures its power plants in Torrington, was recognized for the fuel cell unit installed in December at Yale University.

Congratulations to our friends at FuelCell!
