

College wins CQIA recognition

Saint Joseph College will be awarded a Connecticut Quality Improvement Award (CQIA) Innovation Prize for its Online Biology Masters Degree program. The award will be presented October 17 at CQIA Partnership's 15th Annual Conference on Quality and Innovation in Southbury.

Saint Joseph is one of only a handful of colleges in the world that offer the on-line biology master's degree program. It was created last year to give working professionals an alternative route to take to advance their careers and remain competitive in their current positions.

Roundup, page 10

Roundup/9