State labor agency lauded for program

WETHERSFIELD — A state Department of Labor training program that helps small to mid-size manufacturers has earned the agency an award.

The state Department of Labor has been selected to receive the Gold Innovation Prize by the Connecticut Quality Improvement Award Partnership. It is the fourth time that the Connecticut Department of Labor has won a Connecticut Quality Improvement Award.

This year, the partnership received 110 Connecticut Innovation Prize applications and handed out 22 gold and silver awards.
