LifeCare to receive innovation award

WESTPORT — LifeCare, Inc. announced Thursday that the company will receive a Silver 2002 Connecticut Innovation Award for its resource center, qualifying the life event management services company for the Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award.

The Silver 2002 Connecticut Innovation Award is granted by the Connecticut Quality Improvement Award Partnership (CQIAP), in its 15th annual competition promoting Connecticut organizations that excel in managing quality improvement for business success and growth.

The company offers 24-hour support via telephone and online to help employees manage life, family, health and wellness, education and financial/legal events and issues.

The resource center, a highly secure area of LifeCare's web site, enables client employees to access work and life information and referrals.
